Marked Down Sale Continued.

Hemmed Sheets, Hemmed Pillow and Bolster Cases.

We have decided to continue the sale of Hemmed Pillow Cases, Bolster Cases, and Sheets at the marked down prices of last week. You buy these Hemmed Sheets, Pillow and Bolster Cases for less than the material in them sells for. For instance, we charge 25 cents a yard for the best 10-4 Bleached Utica Sheet, and the sheets being cut 2 1/2 long, makes the material cost 69 cents, and for the sheets already hemmed and 2 1/2 long, less the hem, we charge at this marked down sale,

ONLY 65 CENTS.

All other sizes and qualities proportionately cheap. They are going fast, and if you want to replenish your stock of bed linens it would be well to call early.

Huck Towels, Damask Towels, and Turkish Bath Towels.

We intend making this sale still more attractive this week by marking down our entire stock of Huck, Damask and Turkish Bath Towels, and placing them on sale Monday morning at MARKED DOWN PRICES on our Cheap Counters. No better or larger stock of good Towels anywhere. Hotels, boarding houses and private families can save money by attending this marked down sale this week.

"APENTA"

THE BEST NATURAL APERIENT WATER.

Bottled at the UJ HUNYADI Springs, Buda Pest, Hungary.

Considering the nature of the Hungarian Bitter Water Springs, it must obviously be desirable for the medical profession and the public to be assured authoritatively that the working of these Springs is carried on in a scientific manner, and not merely on commercial lines, and with this view the Uj Hunyadi Springs, from which "Apenta" Water is drawn, are placed under the absolute control of the Royal Hungarian Chemical Institute (Ministry of Agriculture), Buda Pest.

Prices: 15 Cents and 25 Cents per bottle.

At the Mountville Camp Ground Auditorium Last Night.

Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of New York, lectured in the Mountville camp ground auditorium last night for the benefit of the women's camp ground association. He was greeted with a splendid audience. The title of the lecture was "Misplaced Men." In part the speaker said: "I am a believer, but in neither the doctrine of chance nor decree. The figures and colors in a kaleidoscope are not an accident. Between the lines of motion and light can be read clearly the laws of mechanics and optics. There have been times in the world's history, when the lives of men were supposed to be governed by the Fates. Heaven and hell, no more than fortune and misfortune in this life, were matters of foreordination. But we find no such condition of thought in our day."

In my preaching I mix a great deal of this world and the next one together, convinced that what will get a man into this world and through it, will get him into the next one. Have you never imagined that it was not right to go to heaven any time or at all times? It is better to stay here sometimes than to go there. This world is good enough for any one who will exonerate heaven.

How to live—make the most of the warm blood to transmute the nerve might and thought throbs of seventy years—that's the question. Let to-morrow take care of itself. There are twenty-four hours in this day, before to-morrow comes. How are you and I to use them? There are two kinds of people in this world who grapple with it—one who are always at work on what has often been done and the other who are trying to do what has never been done. Both fields are scattered with failures, and both are marked with monuments of memorable success. What you and I want to know is, how in one case the one class can so successfully succeed, and in the other, the other class can't. If I were able to-night to instruct you all how it was possible—ways to be a good mechanic, a clever merchant, a successful gentleman, an honorable lawyer, a skillful physician, and a worthy minister, and equally successful, lovely and useful wives for all these trades and professions, it would be argument for a week, laughter for a month and a good rest forever. There are many persons surprised when they find themselves estimated great. There are a great many more surprised when they find themselves not great, and worse, having no esteem.

Many more men might be eminent than have been. Eminence is a hill along every highway. Wherever there is a road you find somewhere along it the hill. Farmer, mechanic, merchant, minister, lawyer or doctor, soldier or sailor will find it before him. But the many go round it rather than go over or through it. And yet eminence is often little evidence of worth. Men simply go up by being able to find the stairs and there are not a few who are carried up, never knowing how they came there. There is no law for accidents, and when eminence comes by accident, it often goes as it came. It is the exception where opportunity alone brings eminence, and in such instances I admit with the boys on the streets, "You can't most always some times hardly ever tell."

There are two kinds of greatness—one MAKES opportunity and the other USES it. They are as different as the composition of a sermon and the delivery of it. Some men must have opportunities, if not sermons, made for them. Nature has so contrived them. They work material up better than they manufacture it for themselves. I suppose I am addressing those to-night who have found under their own observation that men hire out better than they hire in. I have more charity for Mr. Jones who uses Dean Swift's sermon on the had he mutilated the discourse, appropriating for his own what never belonged to him. An ambitious writer of comedy once sent his composition to his friend for criticism, who returned with his criticism in the form of an epigram:

Your comedy I have read, my friend, And like the half you pilfered best; But sure the drama you might mend. Take courage, man, and steal the rest.

The most unhappy man is the man who has missed his opportunity in mistaking his calling. To know your business and feed its importance is not only to know your adaptation to it, but to know all about the business or the profession. Man is born to toil. No apology will relieve him, and no prospect will help him to evade the burden. Employment is more a prevention of crime than a jail or gallows.

Nearly all failures in business, come from the fact that those at the head of the firms are not prepared to properly conduct them.

Two suggestions may be mentioned which more especially trace the line of thought. I would have you remember: First—An active, inward, passionate, but intelligent impulse and pure motive, and secondly—All human ability, zeal and motive must be supernaturally supplemented, enveloped and endowed thoroughly furnished to every good work. The supernatural element can never be eliminated from your work.

The entire lecture was full of good thoughts and charmed the audience from first to last.

A DOSE of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry brings immediate relief in all cases of cramping pains of the stomach or bowels. It is nature's specific for summer complaint in all its forms.

IF you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of Instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrhoea it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it was a cure. Charles R. ### IN CALIFORNIA.

Notes Concerning Wheelingites who Have Recently Visited that State.

The Cucamonga, California, Olive Leaf, in its last issue contains the following items concerning Wheeling folks who have visited that section:

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hanes, of Wheeling, W. Va., are visiting with their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Loomis, in the Hermosa colony. They are completely infatuated with the beauty of the Cucamonga district. Mrs. Hanes is visiting upon the Pacific coast for the benefit of her health. She has been at the Loomis home for the past two weeks, her health is improving nicely and she is in excellent spirits. They ought to make this their permanent home, if they would enjoy good health and the pleasures of life.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Loomis are becoming regular Cucamonga boomers. Through their influence Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lemmon, of Wheeling, W. Va., who visited here several weeks last fall, are coming again in a few weeks to spend the winter. Of course this means that they are coming here to buy them a home. It is the same with all. After once visiting in Cucamonga, people are not contented until they come here and make it their permanent home. Mr. Loomis informs us that Mr. J. Glascock will accompany his friends to Cucamonga, it being his first visit to the golden state.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL FAIR

Will be the Best Yet Given by the Wheeling Association.

There can be no doubt whatever of the proposition that the Sixteenth Annual Fair of the West Virginia State Fair Association, to be given at Wheeling, September 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, will eclipse any previous exposition undertaken by the organization. Every effort has been made to bring about a distinct and marked improvement in every department and in all lines of special amusements and attractions, and as a result the programme will present some unique features, while the fair as a whole, will be mammoth in size and replete with sustained interest for the visitor. A thoroughly revised and enlarged premium list will also insure additional incentive for the exhibitor to compete with his choicest products, and arrangements have been made to accommodate a larger number of exhibits than ever before.

The management has entered into liberal arrangements with all the railroads leading into the city, and the people of West Virginia and the counties of Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania should turn out en masse and enjoy a week of rest, recreation and instruction at this great institution, the West Virginia State Fair.
